

This Privacy Policy describes how we collect, use, and disclose information when you use our browser extension to warn against censorship and Google administration ("Extension"). Your privacy is important to us, and we take the protection of your personal data very seriously. Please read this Privacy Policy carefully to understand how we use your information.

Collection and Use of Information

We do not collect or use personal information through the extension. We do not store any information about user identity, IP addresses, browsing history, or other personal data. The only exception is the report function, which only sends us the URL of the current page, which should possibly be censored or displays irregularly updated content from its pages. After all, without reference to personal data, only the URL. This is a project and part of a master's thesis. The data will be used exclusively for research purposes. The user experience is then evaluated in the form of a qualitative survey.

Use of permissions

The extension can request permissions such as access to tabs, storage, script execution, and notifications. These permissions are used solely for the operation of the extension, to display warnings of potential censorship and to ensure effective functionality. No personal data is collected or transferred.

Disclosure of data

Since no personal data is collected, we do not pass on any data to third parties.

Changes to this Privacy Policy

We reserve the right to update or change this Privacy Policy at any time. All changes will be posted on this page, and the date of the last update will be displayed at the top of the page.

Contact us

If you have any questions about this Privacy Policy, please contact us at eric.nono@outlook.de.

By using our browser extension, you agree to the terms of this Privacy Policy.
